SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 23, 1863.

By Telegraph.

We have the satisfaction of publishing more agreeable reports in this morning's dispatch, and if the rebels admit the capture of the city of Jackson, we may hope it is so. Port Gibson is also in the hands of the national army, and Admiral Porter seems to have been proving himself to be an industrious patriot. Col. Grierson's raid was an admirable and successful exploit. We hope he will speedily do so again. There is no confirmation of the story rumored yesterday, in regard to Hooker's removal, but on the contrary, reinforcements are sent to him, because, as we suppose, there are reasons to believe that he will speedily need them. The old war ship Preble, built nearly thirty years ago, has been burned and blown up.

MILITARY.—We are indebted to the courtesy of Major Philip C. Schuyler, A. Adj. General, for a copy of the militia law of the State, passed at the last session of the Legislature, and published in neat pamphlet form by the State Printer.

We learn from Major P. Wasserman, A. Adj. Gen., 2d Brigade, that the Brigade has been divided into three regimental districts, and that the counties of Clackamas, Washington, Multnomah, Columbia, Clatsop and Tillamook have been assigned to the Regiment, of which Colonel John McCraken is commander.

We understand that Col. McCraken, with his usual promptitude, will forthwith, in obedience to the law, proceed to "divide his regimental districts into ten company districts, each containing as near as may be, the same number of persons liable to military duty."

David P. Thompson, Esq., of Oregon City, who has been appointed Lieutenant Colonel of the Regiment, declines to accept his commission. We have not heard of the appointment of any one as Major, but we trust that the Governor, as we have no doubt he is anxious to do, will give commissions to those who feel an interest in military matters, and who will attend faithfully to the duties of their positions. It is in our judgment, a matter of the highest importance, that the militia of the State should be thoroughly organized, and its defects as they may be developed, can be easily remedied at the next session of the Legislature. But it is absolutely necessary that only such persons in every grade of the service should be entrusted with the work of putting it in operation, as care for its success and are capable of accomplishing it, for if the officers appointed regard the subject with indifference and only desire to get handles to their names, the money of the State will be foolishly wasted, the system will become a farce, and all connected with it will be exposed to ridicule.

WAR DEMOCRACY.—The State Journal contains the proceedings of a convention calling itself the "Clarke County Democratic Convention," held at Vancouver on Saturday last. Eight long resolutions were adopted, but we have only room for the last, which we copy, and from which we infer that the convention did not represent the Peace Democracy, and will not be endorsed by the true blue lovers of "peace on any terms." The resolution sounds like Union talk, and if all the Democrats of Clarke county sincerely adopt it, they are nearer to truth and righteousness than we have supposed. We are glad also to see such good words published in the Journal, and hope its editors approve them:

8th. That the Democracy of Clarke county are for the Union, and the whole Union, and in favor of the vigorous prosecution of the efforts of the Government in crushing the present unholy and wicked rebellion, when such efforts are not actuated by any other motives than a single desire to maintain the honor and dignity of the nation and enforcement of its laws. That we are forever opposed to the conclusion of any peace involving in its terms the acknowledgment of the independence of the so-called Southern Confederacy, and that we hereby pledge ourselves that, come weal or woe, in life and death, now and forever, to stand by and defend the flag of our country in its hour of peril!

The following nominations were made by the convention: Treasurer, Louis Sohns; Assessor, C. C. Bozarth; Commissioner, G. W. Hart; Representatives, J. T. Bowles, H. M. Knapp and Wm. Bratton.

The following persons were elected Delegates to the Territorial Convention: H. G. Struve, J. D. Cole, S. Curtis, John Corless, and Lewis Van Vleet.

RIGHTEOUS DECISION.—The Secretary of the Interior has declined the execution of the joint resolution of Congress for the distribution among the members of the last Congress of all the books and documents possessed by that body and published by their order. The measure, he decides, is impracticable, as well as illegal. It would give fifteen thousand dollars' worth of books to each member. In view of the mileage swindle, the above document speculation, and the stealing of books from the library, the last Congress seem to have had peculiar notions. It almost looks as though some of the members supposed they never would have another chance to steal anything more from our venerable Uncle, and they therefore determined to make the most of the offered opportunity.

Washington Territory.

At the request of some of our subscribers and others in Washington Territory, who are unfaltering Union men, we publish the following call for another Convention in that Territory; but we trust that the loyal voters over there will not become so confused and complicated by the schemes of their Conventions as to lose sight of the great issue. We know that such meetings are often made the machines of skillful demagogues, who use them more for personal than patriotic purposes, and, therefore, it is right and necessary that the people should watch their actions with care, and if need be, counteract and check them, by arrangements more pure and loyal. We hope there is no cause to suspect that any of the proposed Conventions will be controlled or managed except for the public good; and if that is the only object, there will be no serious or irreconcilable division of opinion:

TO THE UNION MEN OF WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

A call has been made for a Convention to be held at Vancouver on the 25th of the present month, (May) and also for another Convention to assemble at Tumwater on the 8th of June, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Delegateship. Now, we have this suggestion to make: That the two Conventions unite at Chiquale, Lewis county, on or about the 1st of June, and then and there unite in the nomination of a candidate, who is both willing and capable of representing the true loyal sentiment of the Territory. A man who is uncompromising in his support of the Government in putting down a rebellion which is fast depopulating our land and spreading ruin, desolation and sorrow throughout the length and breadth of our once happy country; a man who will forget party in this great struggle for law and order, and who will ever be found ready and willing to avow his own devotedness to the Union and also that of his constituents; one who will never subscribe to the humiliating and cowardly principles of that treasonable party which is endeavoring to gain the ascendancy in the North by catering to the morbid sentiment of the disaffected and the sympathies of those of Southern origin; one who believes that by supporting and encouraging the present Administration in this its hour of trial, is adopting the only course left for loyal men and also complying with the wishes and sentiment of an overwhelming majority of the citizens of Washington Territory.

Let it not be said in Congress that we are a disloyal people; that we are in favor of yielding to that rebellious crew who have abandoned their birthright and are now dealing death blows at the heart of that mother whose fostering care has been over them ever since they came into existence. Let not our influence, feeble though it may be, be given in favor of any party which, on account of the incidental evils of the Administration, would inaugurate a counter revolution in the North by taking the Government into their own hands—a revolution which would prove more fearful and destructive than the one in which we are already involved. Thus far have we been let alone in this great struggle for life; thus far have we been blessed with domestic peace and quietness; thus far have our lives been unimperiled and our property unmolested. Can we, then, in consideration of past favors, do less than to offer a word of encouragement to the thousands of patriots who are rallying to the support of our bleeding country? Shall we pay no honors to the memories of the thousands who have offered their lives as a sacrifice to the glorious Union? Shall we, for the sake of having it said that democracy or republicanism rules, sacrifice our patriotism to party, send a man as Delegate who will prove but another brand to the consuming fire—one who will carry no encouraging word from this obscure and dependent Territory? Shall we not, for the time being, rather, unite in the nomination of one who will, in the present emergency, echo the true loyal sentiment of our citizens?

MANY VOTERS.

DIPTHERIA AT OREGON CITY.—We regret to hear that there is much sickness among the children at Oregon City, and that from several families the joy of the household has been suddenly translated, to adorn at the Master's summons, "the house not made with hands."

This mysterious disease, which seems at times to baffle the best medical skill, has been a severe and peculiar scourge to many families in the State, but it has visited our neighbors repeatedly, and with special heaviness. This has seemed the more strange, inasmuch as Oregon City is blessed with general health, pure air, and excellent medical learning and experience—being in all these respects, quite as highly favored as any place on this coast. Yet it has heretofore suffered greatly, and now again, it is under sorrowful affliction. While deeply sympathizing with those who mourn, we trust that their sad number may not be increased by the further loss of young and precious life.

UNUSUAL MORTALITY AT THE DALLES.—The Mountaineer says that "for the twenty-four hours ending with Wednesday morning, there were six deaths within the limits of the town, and at one time there were four open graves in the city cemetery, waiting for occupants." It adds "that no particular disease prevails, but very many are sick, and deaths are of frequent occurrence. Thus far they have been principally among women and children, and in most cases the cause can be traced to diseases contracted elsewhere."

CONGRESSIONAL FRAUD.—The correspondent of the Sacramento Union, (referring we suppose to Alfred Ely of New York,) mentions the case of a member of Congress from the interior of New York, who procured, during the last session of Congress, some two hundred volumes of books from the Congressional Library, which he drew out by installments and sent home under his own frank as public documents. The books were all traced to him and were discovered to have been rebound, the peculiar Congressional binding having been stripped off for that purpose. The Librarian of Congress sent him a very sharp letter, threatening exposure, which brought to Washington the guilty thief, who trembled as he must have when he was seized by the rebels at Bull Run No. 1 and carried to Richmond, where he was long confined in prison, as every body knows. Truly, the flesh is dreadful weak nowadays, and it may be that this ex-Congressman sold army commissions, as he was accused of doing last Winter.

Archbishop Hughes, in a letter to the New York Herald, expresses the opinion that "if a law of conscription had been adopted twenty months ago in the North, as it had been in the South, the results would be of more humane consequences to both sections than they are to-day.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE DAILY OREGONIAN

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Dates to May 17th.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The Times army correspondent says Stuart is for the present in command of Stonewall Jackson's corps, which consists of a full division of 15,000 men.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—It is ascertained from a gentleman who has returned from the Army of the Potomac that Hooker seems highly gratified with his recent visit to the President. The river front of the enemy has been reconnoitered and the discovery made that during the night of the 14th they threw up new and extensive works along the right of Hill's position in the rear of Fredericksburg.

It is reported to-day that every soldier now in detail service in and around Washington and Baltimore, and on the railroads of Virginia and Maryland, will be forwarded to Hooker's command and the places supplied by Pennsylvania militia, which force it is said has been tendered by Gov. Curtin.

The Marshal of the District of Columbia has seized, under the Confiscation Act, the real and personal estate of Capt. J. M. Maffitt, of the rebel privateer, Florida.

MURFREESBORO, May 17th.—The Chattanooga Rebel of the 16th, contains the following: Mobile, May 14th.—Jackson, Miss., is in possession of the enemy. We fought them all day, but could not hold the city.

NEW YORK, May 17th.—Steamer George Washington, from New Orleans, May 10th, has arrived. An Opelousas letter of the 5th, states that information from Grand Gulf has been received with the details of the capture of Port Gibson.

The cavalry raid of Col. Grierson caused hundreds of families to leave the interior of the State. The damage done by this raid is incalculable. Grierson has arrived at New Orleans.

Quite an excitement occurred on the evening of the 7th, at the Opera, occasioned by the ordinance demanding that the national airs be played, but nothing serious resulted.

Admiral Farragut arrived at New Orleans, May 9th, from Brasher City, with the important intelligence that Alexandria was captured on the 4th, by Admiral Porter. Prior to this capture, Fort Dutussey, on Red River, was demolished by the vessels of Farragut's and Porter's fleet, after a severe fight. One of the rebel gunboats was captured after the capture of the town. The advance cavalry of Gen. Dwight dashed into the place, forming a junction between Farragut's and Banks' forces.

Opelousas dates to the 6th, state that our army is on the march.

A Baton Rouge letter of the 2d state that Grierson's force, consisting of the 5th and 7th Illinois cavalry, with a large number of prisoners, returned to that city on that day. They left Lagrange, Tenn., on the 16th of April. The destruction of property by them was greater than accounts given by the rebels mentioned in previous dispatches. At Clinton, near the Louisiana line, they destroyed a rebel camp and captured 300 prisoners. They crossed Amite river ten miles from Baton Rouge on the morning of the 1st, and captured a rebel picket of 100 men with horses. Every railroad in Mississippi was cut by them. They supplied themselves with fresh horses on the road, and brought in over 300 contrabands on horses.

The New Orleans Era of the 6th, gives the particulars of the burning of the ship of war Preble at Pensacola, on the 27th of April.—The fire caught accidentally. After burning several hours, she blew up. All hands were saved.

A MODEL SPEECH.—A captain in an Iowa Regiment, having been informed that his company had subscribed a handsome sum for the purpose of purchasing and presenting him with an elegant sash and sword, called his men together, and delivered himself of the following model speech. It is full of straightforward common sense and pure disinterested patriotism combined:

Boys, if you have any money to spare send it home to your families, if they need it; if not, keep until you need it yourselves. I will buy my own sword. Should you do it, and should it come to disgrace in these hands, you could but regret the gift; or should I accept it from you, and some day find it my imperative duty to kick some one of the donors out of this company, it might be unpleasant to think that I was under obligations to that person as a contributor to the elegant sword fund. For these reasons I must firmly and kindly decline the favor which your loyal hearts prompt you to bestow. Wait until the war is over; wait until the tide of battle shall have been stayed—till the raging billows of this cursed rebellion shall have been rolled back; wait until I have proved myself worthy to receive so noble a gift—until you have shown yourselves by deeds of daring and feats of bravery worthy to bestow it upon me; then, perchance, I may be happy to accept at your hands, some lasting testimonial of your confidence and esteem. Till then, wait.

DENTAL CARDS.—Certificates received by Dr. W. KOEHLER from his former places of residence:

This recommendation is due Dr. W. KOEHLER, a Practical Dentist, for his skill, thorough professional attainments, and complete knowledge of the science of Dentistry. I cheerfully recommend Dr. Koehler to all who may need or desire his professional services. J. S. TITUS, M. D.
Placerville, May 6th, 1859.

I have known Dr. KOEHLER as a practicing Dentist in this place for some time past. He is thoroughly versed in his profession, and I would cordially recommend him to those desirous of obtaining the services of an educated and skillful Dentist. JOHN COOKE, M. D.
Placerville, May 5th, 1859.

MOKELUMNE HILL, August 25, 1859.
Having had occasion to employ several operators to construct a set of artificial teeth for me, but without having derived any benefit from them, I at last consulted Dr. W. KOEHLER, to whom I gave my case for another trial. He made me a full set of teeth, which I am now wearing with all the comfort and satisfaction desired, and I would recommend him to all in need of the services of a skillful Dentist. W. McFADDEN, M. D.

GREAT ATTRACTION.—The Ladies' Sanita Aid Society will have a Benefit this eveni at the Theatre, by the kindness of Professo Belew, who has generously tendered his ser vices in behalf of the object of the Society. Arrangements will be made for the safe exhi bition of the Professor's system, by taming wild colt. We trust that there will be a f house, for aside from the object of the Ladies in collecting money, we can assure our rea ers that they will be most agreeably ente tained and instructed. The very intelligen lecture of the Professor will be fully wort the ticket, and no one will regret his donatio to a worthy cause. The Proprietor of th Theatre makes no charge for its use, and th Mechanic's Brass Band will, without charg furnish excellent music. Go, everybody, an give the Ladies a generous benefit in behal of the wounded soldiers.

We would, in this connection, remind th members of Prof. Belew's class, and any oth ers who may wish to learn the science, th he will again lecture and demonstrate a Messrs. Sherlock & Bacon's Livery Stable this afternoon at 2 o'clock. We deem it onl necessary to state that the unanimous test mony of every one who has witnessed thes performances, pronounce them truly interes ing and profitable. The Prof. now has a clas of some fifty or sixty persons, composed o many of our most wealthy and influential cit izens. An interesting and useful publication, illustrating the science of horsemanship, together with a large number of valuable receipts for the curing of all diseases incident to horseflesh, is given to each member of the class, which with the instructions accompanying it, will fit any one for the proper care and management of this most useful and noble servant of man.

THE NATIONAL GLASS BLOWERS.—We were mistaken in saying that this troupe will give an exhibition this afternoon, for the benefit of the scholars of the several schools in this city; there will be no exhibition until Monday night, owing to previous arrangements for a ball, to-night, at the place selected for the exhibition. It would, perhaps, be proper to state the reason why the Turn-Verein Hall was selected instead of the Theatre or some other building nearer the centre of the city, to wit: that no other place could be procured suitable for such an exhibition, it being a promenade show, and entirely different from any other show ever seen in this city. The Turn-Verein Hall is a very neat, commodious and well lighted hall, located on the corner of Second and "A" Streets, a short distance below Engine House No. 2, with about as good side-walks leading to the place as are usually found in the city. We acknowledge the reception of a very pretty specimen of their works, representing a "bird of Paradise," beautifully embellished with the various tints of color reflected by the plumage of that gay bird, sent to us from Oregon City, where the troupe have been exhibiting to the biggest audiences ever before gathered in that town. Everybody goes to see this truly wonderful and pleasing show, because it is instructive, chaste and elegant, besides amusing and profitable, well worth the patronage of any one. Beautiful and elegant presents are given away to the audience each evening, which would adorn the mantle-piece of any parlor, or the raven, auburn, or any other kind of ringlets of a pretty little sweet-heart,—"or any other man."

RECORDER'S COURT.—Our worthy Recorder has been quite unwell during the past week, but is now so sufficiently recovered as to be able to resume the discharge of his duties; therefore those who have any desire to get drunk, fight, ride fast, or commit other little indiscretions, can do so without fear of not having their respective cases kindly and promptly disposed of. Instead of taking advantage of the indisposition of the Court, people generally have manifested a great regard for the observance of the laws, generously waiting for the convalescence of the Recorder. But one case was up. M. C. Malowne, who keeps a saloon in the lower part of the city, was fined twenty-five dollars and costs for selling liquor without license, which he paid in preference to going to jail for ten days.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.—Our readers who have patriotic memories, are aware that once a year, about this time, the papers here are in the habit of urging the people to adopt some measures to secure the proper celebration of the birth day of National Independence. The mention of its approach ought to be sufficient to inspire us all with a desire and a determination to make its becoming observance a matter of patriotic duty. But while every body says it is right and proper and patriotic and good policy, each waits for somebody else to put the plan in motion, and so nothing is accomplished. What shall be done this year? Who will start a good, old-fashioned celebration?

RESIGNATION.—Rev. P. E. Highland, Rector of Trinity Church, in this city, has, we are informed, tendered his resignation of his position, to take effect from the first of June next.

FIGHT BETWEEN A LION AND GORILLA.—The thrilling description of a terrific combat between a lion and a gorilla, which we have been publishing on the fourth page of our paper, will be concluded next week. It was written by an English nobleman, who, not believing the stories told by hunters in reference to the habits and ferocity of the terrible gorilla, sought the favorite haunts of this much dreaded beast, and in the jungles of an African wilderness, witnessed the grand scene of a fight between one of these apes and the king of beasts, a lion. The sketch is taken from an English magazine, and as it is well written and exceedingly interesting, we think it is worthy of perusal.

Capt. Pym, of the English navy, has just had an interview with the Emperor Napoleon, in order to show his majesty a new plan for digging a canal across the Isthmus of Panama. This is a favorite project of the Emperor's. The present is deemed a good occasion for foreigners to obtain the control of the Isthmus, and his majesty is said to have recommended Capt. Pym to M. Rothschild, in order to obtain the funds for his project.

Dr. Hall's Balsam.—This medicine is a sure remedy for CONSUMPTION in all its various stages, and is especially efficacious for a common Cold or Cough. When taken according to directions, it gives immediate relief, and in a short time effects a permanent cure.

EXPECTORANT

AND SANATIVE PILLS

HAVE BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC SO LONG, and found such general favor in every region of country where they have been sold, (and there is no place on the civilized globe where they have not been sold) that it would seem almost superfluous at this time to direct attention to them through the medium of the press. Yet it is due to suffering humanity, and especially to that numerous class who, in the changeable climate of the Pacific Coast, suffer from

Diseases of the Lungs & Throat,

[illegible] and ending in CONSUMPTION, many of whom may not have used this remedy, that they should be allowed [illegible] of one of the cases where its influence has been useful in removing complaints from which they are suffering. The EXPECTORANT

Operates immediately upon the Disease,

SURELY AND SPEEDILY ERADICATING IT,

while the SANATIVE PILLS, by preserving regularity in the Bowels, and giving a healthy tone to the other internal organs, will aid and assist the perfect operation of the former.

Attention is called to the following Certificates, selected at random from the mass in the possession of the proprietors:

UPPER UWCHLAND, Chester Co., Pa., Sept 15, 1858.

Dr. D. JAYNE—Having been afflicted with ASTHMA and BRONCHITIS, and having the advice of some of the most eminent physicians, whose skillful treatment of my case did not prove to be of any avail, I obtained no relief for my suffering until I commenced the use of your EXPECTORANT. After taking it for about three months, I was entirely cured.

NATHAN PENNYPACKER.

ASTORIA, Long Island, Jan 15, 1860.

L. W. TINELLI, Esq., New York—Sir: As you well know I had been afflicted with BRONCHITIS, accompanied with the most painful tightness of the chest, and great difficulty in breathing for nearly two months, and I had almost lost all confidence in the power of medical science, when at some friendly suggestion, I began the well known but not enough known "EXPECTORANT" of Dr. Jayne, of Philadelphia. Three or four days after having commenced to take it, my cough had nearly subsided, the expectoration was easy, and the breathing quite free.

I am now quite another man, and my general health has never been better.

I remain, my dear Tinelli, with esteem, your servant and friend,

J. B. MONTE.

WINFIELD, Tuscarawas Co., O., May 31, 1860.

Dr. D. JAYNE—Dear Sir: One bottle of your Expectorant cured my daughter of the LUNG FEVER, after having been beyond the hopes of recovery. During the attack, she had a number of convulsions. She is now perfectly well.

J. H. COFFMAN.

BULLINGTON, Bradford Co., Pa., July 23, 1863.

Dr. D. JAYNE—Dear Sir: My son was for one and a half years afflicted with a disease resembling CONSUMPTION; for two years he was not able to labor. He was finally induced to try your EXPECTORANT and PILLS, and after taking them to be cured [illegible] and is now able to labor every day. JOHN HENRY

We would add to the above that we sold to Mr Henry the medicine for his son, and know that the statement is true.

MERRY, WILHELM & CO.

For a greater number and variety of certificates, and full information in regard to these and other of Dr. D. Jayne's and Sons' Preparations, reference is given to the ANNUAL ALMANAC, which may be had from any Druggist or dealer in Medicines.

I can most sincerely say that I have never known any, however delicate, to be injured by it in the least. I will continue to ask the afflicted, who have not used it, to try it for the following diseases: If they are not satisfied with its healing qualities, the money will be cheerfully returned by the agent where the medicine is for sale.

If you have pain in the stomach or bowels, try a dose of Pain Panacea internally, bathe externally over the parts affected, and you will at once restore the proper action and relieve the pain.

If you have a Bruise or Wound, bathe it well with the Pain Panacea four times a day. It will relieve the pain, and take out all the poison, and heal the wound in a short time.

If you are suffering from Neuralgia or Rheumatic Pains, apply the Pain Panacea freely, and take a dose of it internally, morning, noon and night; it will not only cure the pain, but will remove the cause of the disease.

If you have the Dyspepsia, and your food distresses your stomach after eating, take a dose of Pain Panacea after each meal.

If you have a Cankered or Sore Mouth or Throat, apply

If you have the Diarrhoea, or a relaxed state of the bowels, take a dose of Pain Panacea and they will soon be restored. If you have a painful swelling, bathe the parts freely, and you will soon relieve pain, and the swelling will be reduced.

A Terrific Combat.

A few moments of irresolution terminated in my leaving my rifle and taking a long and steady aim at the side of [illegible] It [illegible] difficult to sever my object for attack, [illegible] which was rising from the entire [illegible] the earth, through which the [illegible] seemed to be in perpetual motion. [illegible] of the sight of my rifle up and [illegible] rising and waving, rising and falling, that I lost all confidence in my power [illegible] on the ground, and, being a crack shot under ordinary circumstances, I had easily solved [illegible] everything by standing up and taking [illegible] own shot at him from the shoulder, when a turn was given to my thoughts [illegible] I must confess I got rather a turn myself by the sudden appearance of a new sportsman in the shape of a black python, some thirty feet in length, which was coiled round a small tree close to me, but which my rapt attention to my game had prevented me from observing previously. The python unwound a few coils, and having thus freed about ten or twelve feet of his body to enable him to examine me and my proceedings more closely, he was hanging within a yard of my face, his long, black, forked tongue darting from his mouth, waving and retiring again with the rapidity of lightning, and his glittering eyes glancing from me to the rifle as though he wondered what sort of an animal it was, and whether it might not prove to be a more dainty morsel than I myself might be. I had a Persian scimitar, as keen as a razor, in my hunting belt. The snake in his waving to and fro brought his neck at times within a foot of my shoulders. I slid my right hand down to feel for the handle of my sword, keeping my eyes fixed upon the python. I grasped and was drawing my weapon, wondering whether the snake or I would strike first, when both of us were startled by a terrific shriek, or rather series of shrieks, as of a strong, rough woman was rending the air in mingled rage and pain.

The python vanished as my sword flew out.

The shrieks were uttered by the female gorilla, who had gone some distance into wood whilst I was engaged, first with trying to aim at the male, and afterwards with watching the terrible reptile. She had either disturbed a lion who was sleeping away the effects of a hearty supper, or had met him on his way to the cool depths of the forest, and had nearly afforded him a morning repast. She sprang into the nearest tree, uttering at the same time those startling human cries which had frightened away the python and nearly unnerved me. As to my guide, he had not seen my danger, and he was still watching the male gorilla, patiently awaiting my decision and expecting every instant the report of my rifle. The shrieks had startled him a little, not so much, however, as they had affected me; for he had heard the like before, and he knew they would be uttered the moment that either a shot should be fired or the female should discover us by any chance. But when a roar, that shook the ground on which we lay, announced the [illegible] my Fan friend, black as he was, actually became palsied with fear.

The roar of the lion was instantly answered by a deeper, hoarser, louder, and more savage roar. A sound so expressive of anger, defiance, and relentless, savage, cruel ferocity, I never heard!

I looked at the Fan and smiled. He understood me instantly. His limbs ceased to tremble. He closed his mouth with an effort, then grinned, placed his hands on his lips, and turned to watch the combat which was now inevitable, and in the occurrence of which lay our best hopes of safety.

Scarcely thirty yards on our left the lion had come crushing through the jungle, and had cleared the close inner tangle with a bound. He now stood full in sight in the clear open, his head erect, his mane standing up and out, all straight, like the hair of an angry cat, magnifying his apparent bulk to colossal proportions; his tail, which at first stood nearly straight, was waving from side to side. At length it struck his [illegible] alternately on either side with sounding blows, and he uttered a longer and more terrific roar than that which he had given when the female gorilla escaped from him. Opposite to him was the male gorilla, now looking most unlike the uncouth, sleepy figure which we had seen propped against the tree.

At the first shriek from his mate, the gorilla had sprung into life and sudden energy. Placing the knuckles of his upper [illegible] upon the ground he bounded lightly into the air to a surprising height, rising on all his four hands together, and coming down on all fours again. When the [illegible] roared, the gorilla seemed at once to comprehend the nature both of the challenge and the adversary, and to resolve upon fighting, although it would have been easy for him to escape by springing into a [illegible]. He rose upon his hinder hands, or feet, and standing erect, looked very much like a large-bodied, long-armed, short-legged, powerful negro, about six feet two inches in height. He uttered his tremendous defiance at the lion, sonorously beating his [illegible] at the same time with his hands [illegible] and producing sounds like heavy blows upon a bass drum. When the [illegible] sprang into the enclosure [illegible] before him, the gorilla [illegible] on all fours again, with his knuckles on the ground; [illegible]

[illegible] or considered by him, accepted nevertheless the preliminary contest of angry [illegible], and uttered another roar so dreadful [illegible] terrible, that it was [illegible] in order to [illegible] that the lion prompted at [illegible] leaping upon him [illegible] bring the question of superior prowess to the proof. A few short, swift steps—a bound of twenty feet, two or three sharp, snarling growls—and I expected to see the combatants locked in fatal embrace! But it was not so. As soon as the lion rose in his long bound, the gorilla sprang also, but more rigidly and higher, straight up into the air. The lion struck upwards to catch him in the act, but turned himself over, and he fell heavily on his side. The gorilla dropped on him, striking him twice, and then springing off with a sidling, jumping run, to a distance of several yards. Instantaneous as had been the encounter, both were severely wounded. The gorilla was bleeding from the head and back. The lion had a fearful gash across his ribs; and, judging by the crushing sounds of the two blows which he had received, I thought that some of his ribs must have been broken. The lion rushed without a moment's pause at his adversary, but the agility of the gorilla was too much for him; the lion [illegible] at his pleasure. For some minutes the movements of the lion in attack and of the gorilla in advance, were almost too rapid for the eye to follow their evolutions. At length the lion paused, bewildered by the speed and activity of his antagonist. Instantly the gorilla sprang upon and rolled him over with a single blow upon the side of the head. Again the chase and avoidance were resumed, but this time for a much longer space than before; the lion having resolved to catch the nimble ape; but again he was obliged to pause, and again he was instantly knocked over. When he rose he staggered, whether from the effects of the terrific blows which he had received, or from giddiness resulting from his gyrations in pursuit of the gorilla, it was impossible to decide, but he reeled and fell on several steps to the right before he recovered sufficiently to prepare for another charge. In the meantime the gorilla was dodging round and bobbing up and down before him, as captured monkeys may be often seen to do in their cages when persons are teasing them. Both lion and gorilla kept up an incessant noise, growling, snarling, roaring and screaming, varying their tones in accordance with their actions or suffering; and although nothing like a close had taken place, both were bleeding freely; the lion's right eye was either shut up or gone, and the gorilla was nearly scalped. The lion had now learned so much of his enemy's strength and activity that he tried several feints to get within range. He lay down, but the gorilla kept jumping round him so near, that he was obliged to spring round with equal alertness to avoid being taken by surprise. He tried another rush, but stopped sooner than at first, and when the gorilla sprang upon him to strike, the lion turned on his back and received him with his teeth and claws.

The crisis of the battle had arrived. Growls, snarls, shrieks, and roars came out in a demoniac chorus from a confused mass of twirling leaves and dust; limbs, teeth, claws, blood and springing bodies, as [illegible] were commingling amidst a whirlwind. I became so excited that I could scarcely command myself. A crash, as of smashing large bones, and a horrible shriek. The noise and fury of the combat were redoubled for a minute or two. Then came a pause. The dust and cloud of leaves subsided. The lion was uppermost. The arm of the gorilla was across his tremendous mouth. It was the crunching of the double bone of the fore arm which I had heard. His claws were firmly fixed in the gorilla's shoulder and head, but he was himself nearly torn asunder and disemboweled! Huge rents were in his body, and the feet of the gorilla were buried in his loins, whilst the mighty right arm of the ape was free, and would be active again directly breath had been taken.

The final struggle quickly came. Up rose the cloud of dust and leaves again. Whirling, shrieking, bounding, striking, growling, struggling, groaning, the confused mass rushed hither and thither with increased velocity. Over and over it rolled, like a tangle of fighting demons, until it came uncomfortably near to where I and my negro guide were lying hid. It swayed away from us, returned again, rolled off, then back; and just as the Fan and I both sprang to our feet to escape from such dangerous proximity, the combatants, locked in their deadly embrace, came crashing against us, knocking us over, and into a deep pit which we had not seen, falling upon us with a force which for an instant deprived me of consciousness. Recovering myself, however, I struggled, fearing that even if the beasts had killed each other, I should be smothered under their bleeding carcasses. I kicked, struck, and tried to push the dreadful load away. The noise [illegible] was terrific, but I was able to distinguish my own name amidst the uproar, and it struck me that the voice in which it was pronounced was somewhat familiar. I [illegible] myself, [illegible] and listened. [illegible]

What England must Expect.—John Bull [illegible] writes a ferocious paragraph for the leading article in Harper's Weekly of April 25th. Listen:

"So soon as the restoration of the Union has been achieved, we look to see energetic measures adopted by our Government for the settlement of accounts with England. We expect to see every penny with [illegible] dollar for the depredations of the Alabama paid in full with interest, by the British Government. The amount can always be collected in the port of New York. Half-a-dozen British steamers and a score of British ships seized and sold at auction by the United States Marshal would go far to make a balance. And when England next goes to war look out for retaliation. Though her antagonist be only some Hottentot chief, the ocean shall bristle with American cruisers, flying his flag, and England may very much [illegible] every [illegible] American trader that has been burned during this war by British pirates, ten British vessels will then be destroyed. A Spur in the Rear.—A laughing incident occurred during the late battle at Newtonia. The fight being rather hotly contested, an officer became very thirsty and repaired to a spring near at hand to get a draught of water. Kneeling down he drank freely, without the aid of a cup. As he rose from this refreshing spring, he sat himself fair and square upon his own heels, which were armed with a pair of tremendous Mexican spurs. The instant he felt the prick of the sharp rowels, he thought the enemy were upon him and a bayonet entering his flesh. When some of his men arrived, he was bawling at the top of his voice, "Oh, I surrender! I surrender!"

INDUCED by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable,) hosts of ignorant Quacks and unscrupulous adventurers have opened upon suffering humanity the flood-gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor Whisky, vilely compounded with injurious drugs and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable army of Alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles and big bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which instead of curing only aggravate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in despair.

Hoofland's German Bitters!

Are not a new and untried article, but have stood the test of fifteen years trial by the American public; and their reputation and sale are not rivalled by any similar preparation.

The proprietors have thousands of letters from the most eminent

CLERGYMEN,

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I, therefore, thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.

J. NEWTON BROWN.

Philadelphia, June 23, 1861.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, compounded of the cheapest whiskey or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused, and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use the system is kept continually under the influence of Alcoholic Stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the result is all the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters, we publish the following receipt. Get One Bottle Hoofland's German Bitters and mix with Three Quarts of Good Brandy or Whiskey, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market, and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of Hoofland's Bitters in connection with a good article of Liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION, SOLDIERS!

AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "HOOFLAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine-tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language, "has been saved by the Bitters:"

PHILADELPHIA, August 23, 1862.

Messrs. Jones & Evans—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery, and under the immediate command of Captain R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflammation of the lungs, and was for seventy-two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removed from the White House, and sent to this city on board the steamer State of Maine, from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as any one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances; and, accordingly, the physicians who had been working faithfully, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbron, of Sixth below Arch street, advised me, as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters, and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained ten pounds, and I feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months; for, gentlemen, I am a loyal Virginian, from the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the certainty of life which has taken the place of vague fears—to your Bitters will I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly yours, ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to health.

A Terrific Combat.

FIGHT BETWEEN A LION AND A GORILLA.

A few moments of irresolution terminated in my laying my rifle and taking a long and steady aim at the side of paterfamilias. It was difficult to cover my object; for a flickering exhalation was rising from the entire surface of the earth, through which the gorilla seemed to be in perpetual motion, in and out of the sight of my rifle; up and down, flashing and waving, rising and falling, until I lost all confidence in my power of taking aim so near the ground, and, being a crack shot under ordinary circumstances, I had just resolved to risk everything by standing up and taking an open shot at him from the shoulder, when a turn was given to my thoughts (and I must confess I got rather a turn myself) by the sudden appearance of a new sportsman in the shape of a black python, some thirty feet in length, which was coiled round a small tree close to me, but which my rapt attention to my game had prevented me from observing previously. The python unwound a few coils, and having thus freed about ten or twelve feet of his body to enable him to examine me and my proceedings more closely, he was hanging within a yard of my face, his long, black, forked tongue darting from his mouth, waving and retiring again with the rapidity of lightning and his glittering eyes glancing from me to the rifle as though he wondered what sort of an animal it was, and whether it might not prove to be a more dainty morsel than I myself might be. I had a Persian scimitar, as keen as a razor, in my hunting belt. The snake in his waving to and fro brought his neck at times within a foot of my shoulders. I slid my right hand down to feel for the handle of my sword, keeping my eyes fixed upon the python. I grasped and was drawing my weapon, wondering whether the snake or I would strike first, when both of us were startled by a terrific shriek, or rather series of shrieks, as if a strong rough woman was rending the air in mingled rage and pain.

The python vanished as my sword flew out.

The shrieks were uttered by the female gorilla, who had gone some distance into wood whilst I was engaged, first, with trying to aim at the male, and afterwards with watching the terrible reptile. She had either disturbed a lion who was sleeping away the effects of a hearty supper, or had met him on his way to the cool depths of the forest, and had nearly afforded him a morning repast. She sprang into the nearest tree, uttering at the same time those startling human cries which had frightened away the python and nearly unnerved me. As to my guide, he had not seen my danger, and he was still watching the male gorilla, patiently awaiting my decision and expecting every instant the report of my rifle. The shrieks had startled him a little, not so much, however, as they had affected me; for he had heard the like before, and he knew they would be uttered the moment that either a shot should be fired or the female should discover us by any chance. But when a roar, that shook the ground on which we lay, announced the [illegible] escaped, my Fan friend, black as he was, actually became palsied with fear!

The roar of the lion was instantly answered by a deeper, hoarser, louder, and more savage roar. A sound so expressive of anger, defiance, and relentless, savage, cruel ferocity, I never heard!

I looked at the Fan, and smiled. He understood me instantly. His limbs ceased to tremble. He closed his mouth with an effort, then grinned, placed his hands on his lips, and turned to watch the combat which was now inevitable, and in the occurrence of which lay our best hopes of safety.

Scarcely thirty yards on our left, the lion had come crushing through the jungle, and had cleared the close inner tangle with a bound. He now stood full in sight in the clear open, his head erect, his mane standing up and out, all straight, like the hair of an angry cat, magnifying his apparent bulk to colossal proportions, his tail, which at first stood nearly straight, was waving from side to side. At length it struck his ribs alternately on either side with sounding blows, and he uttered a longer and more terrific roar than that which he had given when the female gorilla escaped from him. Opposite to him was the male gorilla, now looking most unlike the uncouth, sleepy figure which we had seen propped against the tree.

At the first shriek from his mate, the gorilla had sprung into life and sudden energy. Placing the knuckles of his upper hands upon the ground he bounded lightly into the air to a surprising height, rising from all his four hands together, and coming down on all fours again. When the lion roared, the gorilla seemed at once to comprehend the nature both of the challenge and the adversary, and to resolve upon fighting, although it would have been easy for him to escape by springing into a tree. He rose upon his hinder hands, or feet, and standing erect, looked very much like a large-bodied, long-armed, short-legged, powerful negro, about six feet two inches in height; he uttered his tremendous acceptance of the lion's challenge, beating his breast at the same time with his huge fists alternately, and producing sounds like heavy blows upon a bass drum. When the lion sprang into the enclosure and stood bristling before him, the gorilla dropped upon all fours again, with his knuckles on the ground; his eyes, which flamed like fire seen through rubies, fixed upon his dreadful enemy; and his eye-brows working up and down with inconceivable rapidity, giving to his countenance a look of such demoniac ferocity, that it seemed to make the lion pause at least, if he did not quail.

Lashing his sides with his tail until he roused himself to fury, the lion delivered his second roar, as though his honor were concerned in out-roaring no less than in vanquishing by his prowess all antagonists; and, on his part, the gorilla, albeit questions of honor seemed little likely to be favored or considered by him, accepted nevertheless the preliminary contest of angry noise, and uttered another roar so demoniac and horrible, standing up again in order to deliver it freely, that the lion crouched at once to spring upon him and bring the question of superior prowess to the proof. A few short, swift steps—a bound of twenty feet, two or three sharp, snarling growls—and I expected to see the combatants locked in fatal embrace! But it was not so.

As the lion rose in his long bound, the gorilla sprang also, but more lightly and higher, straight up in the air. The lion struck upwards, to catch him; the action turned himself over, and he fell heavily on his side; the gorilla dropped on him, striking him twice, and then springing off with a sidling, jumping run, to a distance of several yards. Instantaneous as had been the encounter, both were severely wounded. The gorilla was bleeding from the head and back. The lion had a fearful gash across his ribs; and judging by the crushing sounds of the two blows which he had received, I thought that some of his ribs must have been broken. The lion rushed without a moment's pause at his adversary, but the agility of the gorilla was too much to permit the lion to close at his pleasure. For some minutes the movements of the lion in attack, and of the gorilla in advance, were almost too rapid for the eye to follow their evolutions. At length the lion paused, bewildered by the speed and activity of his antagonist. Instantly the gorilla sprang upon and rolled him over with a single blow upon the side of the head. Again the chase and avoidance were resumed, but this time for a much longer space than before, the lion being resolved to catch the nimble ape; but again he was obliged to pause, and again he was instantly knocked over. When he rose he staggered, whether from the effects of the terrific blows which he had received, or from giddiness resulting from his gyrations in pursuit of the gorilla, it was impossible to decide, but he reeled and fell off several steps to the right before he recovered sufficiently to prepare for another charge. In the meantime the gorilla was dodging round and bobbing up and down before him, as captured monkeys may be often seen to do in their cages when persons are teasing them. Both lion and gorilla kept up an incessant noise, growling, snarling, roaring and screaming, varying their tones in accordance with their actions or suffering, and although nothing like a close had taken place both were bleeding freely; the lion's right eye was either shut up or gone, and the gorilla was nearly scalped. The lion had now learnt so much of his enemy's strength and activity that he tried several feints to get within range. He lay down, but the gorilla kept jumping round him so near, that he was obliged to spring round with equal alertness, to avoid being taken by surprise. He tried another rush, but stopped sooner than at first, and when the gorilla sprang upon him to strike the lion turned on his back and received him with his teeth and claws.

The crisis of the battle had arrived. Growls, snarls, shrieks, and roars came out in a demoniac chorus from a confused mass of twirling leaves and dust; limbs, teeth, claws, blood, and springing bodies, as though ten fighting beasts instead of two were combating amidst a whirlwind. I became so excited that I could scarcely command myself. A crash, as of smashing large bones, and a horrible shriek! The noise and fury of the combat were redoubled for a minute or two. Then came a pause. The dust and cloud of leaves subside. The lion was uppermost. The arm of the gorilla was across his tremendous mouth. It was the crunching of the double bone of the fore arm which I had heard. His claws were firmly fixed in the gorilla's shoulder and head, but he was himself nearly torn asunder and disembowelled! Huge rents were in his body, and the feet of the gorilla were buried in his loins, whilst the mighty right arm of the ape was free, and would be active again directly breath had been taken.

The final struggle quickly came. Up rose the cloud of dust and leaves again! Whirling, shrieking, bounding, striking, growling, struggling, groaning, the confused mass rushed hither and thither with increased velocity! Over and over it rolled, like a tangle of fighting demons, until it came uncomfortably near to where I and my negro guide were lying hid. It swayed away from us, returned again, rolled off, then back; and just as the Fan and I both sprang to our feet to escape from such dangerous proximity, the combatants, locked in their deadly embrace, came crashing against us, knocking us over, and into a deep pit which we had not seen, falling upon us with a force which for an instant deprived me of consciousness. Recovering myself, however, I struggled, fearing that even if the beasts had killed each other, I should be smothered under their bleeding carcasses. I kicked, struck, and tried to push the dreadful load away. The noise above me was terrific, but I was able to distinguish my own name amidst the uproar, and it struck me that the voice in which it was pronounced was somewhat familiar. I paused in my efforts to extricate myself, and listened.

(To be Concluded.)

THE COST OF SOUTH CAROLINA LAND TITLES.—The Rev. Dr. Peck, of Boston, recites with satisfaction, in the New York Examiner, that in and about Beaufort, or Hilton Head, etc., (S. C.) "about 18,000 acres were (recently) sold to parties other than the United States, in separate lots and tracts, for $19,000, or an average of little more than $1 per acre. The United States 'bid in' about 19,000 acres, at an average of fifty-two or fifty-three cents per acre, or an aggregate of $10,000. These last included, apart from the town of Beaufort, some of the plantations adjacent to it, six or seven plantations at and near Land's End, on St. Helena, various large tracts of timber land, and certain choice plantations reserved for special purposes. Four of the plantations were struck off to freedmen or their agents. One of these is on St. Helena, 'Orange Grove,' and brought $225; two are on Ladies' Island—one, 'The Inlet,' sold at $505, and the other, 'Oakland,' at $401. The fourth is on this (Port Royal) island, called 'Edgerly,' which was bid off at $710. The last named purchase was made on behalf of contributors from Edgerly, associated with most of the people of a neighboring plantation, 'The Red House,' who supplied part of the requisite funds."

WHAT ENGLAND MUST EXPECT.—John Bonner, who seldom deals in the lurid, writes a ferocious paragraph for the leading article in Harper's Weekly of April 25th. Listen:

So soon as the restoration of the Union has been achieved, we look to see energetic measures adopted by our Government for the settlement of accounts with England. We expect to see every man who has lost a dollar by the depredations of the Alabama paid in full, with interest, by the British Government. The amount can always be collected in the port of New York. Half a dozen British steamers and a score of British ships seized and sold at auction by the United States Marshal would go far to make a balance. And when England next goes to war look out for retaliation. Though her antagonist be only some Hottentot chief, the ocean shall bristle with American cruisers bearing his flag, and England may rely upon it, that for every peaceful American trader that has been burned during this war by British pirates, ten British vessels will then be destroyed. The next war in which England engages will be the end of her foreign commerce. We mistake our countrymen greatly, if, at the end of twelve months, they leave a ship bearing the British flag afloat in any sea from the German Ocean to Behring's Straits.

REPUBLICAN SUCCESSES WEST.—The re-action against copperheadism is overwhelming. The people are everywhere rising in their might to rebuke the cowardly demagogues who counsel submission to traitors. The elections in New Hampshire and Rhode Island are eloquent testimonials of the loyalty of the masses. The "pacific" Seymour is laid on the shelf in Connecticut. St. Louis elects an unconditional Union Mayor. So do all the principal cities of Ohio. The local elections in Kansas speak as with one voice for the war and the war to the knife. Michigan pronounces in thunder tones for the Government, while Indiana speaks with hardly less emphatic voice.

Let the lukewarm and disloyal take warning. The public temper was never healthier than it is to-day.

A SPUR IN THE REAR.—A amusing little incident occurred during the late battle at Newtonia. The fight being rather hotly contested, an officer became very thirsty, and repaired to a spring near at hand to get a draught of water. Kneeling down he drank freely, without the aid of a cup. As he rose from this refreshing spring, he sat himself fair and square upon his own heels, which were armed with a pair of tremendous Mexican spurs. The instant he felt the prick of the sharp rowels, he thought the enemy were upon him and a bayonet entering his flesh. When some of his men arrived, he was bawling, at the top of his voice, "Oh, I surrender! I surrender!"

LEGAL.

U. S. INCOME TAX.

THE LAW CONTEMPLATES THAT EVERY ONE shall pay on all nett profits (less $600) derived from any source whatever. A person is allowed to deduct all legally assessed National, State and County Taxes, hired help, Rents, Drayage, &c., necessary directly to his business; but no farmer, merchant, mechanic, or any person, has a right to deduct his own labor as so much expense from his income.

The Income Tax is to be paid on the income of the year commencing January 1st, 1862 so that, on the evening of December 31st, 1862, everybody should make up a record of their income gains or profits for that year. And in many sources of income, such as Dividends, and Railroad Bonds and Stocks, Insurance Stock, Savings Banks, Interest, &c., (they having already paid the income tax) are not again taxed. It therefore becomes necessary to have a clear record of the sources of income, that there may be no dispute with the Assessor.

All corporations must deduct the three per centum before it [illegible]

For Example:

A man in business must make up the nett profits of his business for the year, and pay the tax on the amount, less $600.

A man may, outside of his business, spend all and even more than his profits in the business; nevertheless he must pay tax on all nett business profits except the $600. And so with a salary, all over $600 must be taxed, though personal or family expenses consume it all.

The Income Tax for the year 1862 is assessable on the first day of May, 1863, and is due and payable on or before the 30th June, 1863. And any sums due and unpaid for thirty days after the 30th June, as aforesaid, and for ten days after demand by the Collector; five per centum will be added to the amount unpaid.

Each individual of any firm or partnership must make up his income separately.

MEN, WOMEN OR CHILDREN.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU

For Weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipation, Early Indiscretion or Abuse,

ATTENDED WITH THE FOLLOWING SYMPTOMS:

Who can say that they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases,"

"INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION."

Many are aware of the cause of their suffering, BUT NONE WILL CONFESS.

THE RECORDS OF THE INSANE ASYLUMS,

And the melancholy deaths by Consumption bear ample witness to the truth of the assertion that

THEY CONTAIN

NO ALCOHOL OR BAD WHISKY!

They will cure the above diseases in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred.

INDUCED by the extensive sale and universal popularity of Hoofland's German Bitters, (purely vegetable,) hosts of ignorant Quacks and unscrupulous adventurers have opened upon suffering humanity the flood-gates of Nostrums in the shape of poor Whisky, vilely compounded with injurious drugs and christened Tonics, Stomachics and Bitters.

Beware of the innumerable array of Alcoholic preparations in plethoric bottles and big bellied kegs, under the modest appellation of Bitters; which instead of curing only aggravate disease, and leave the disappointed sufferer in despair.

Hoofland's German Bitters!

Are not a new and untried article, but have stood the test of fifteen years trial by the American public; and their reputation and sale are not rivalled by any similar preparation.

The proprietors have thousands of letters from the most eminent

CLERGYMEN,
LAWYERS,
PHYSICIANS
CITIZENS,

Testifying of their own personal knowledge, to the beneficial effects and medical virtues of these Bitters.

Do you want something to strengthen you?
Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want to build up your constitution?
Do you want to feel well?
Do you want to get rid of nervousness?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?

If so, use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge.

Although not disposed to favor or recommend Patent Medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects; I yet know of no sufficient reasons why a man may not testify to the benefits he believes himself to have received from any simple preparation, in the hope that he may thus contribute to the benefit of others.

I do this the more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcoholic mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Shoemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I, therefore, thank God and my friend for directing me to the use of them.

J. NEWTON BROWN.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23, 1861.

PARTICULAR NOTICE.

There are many preparations sold under the name of Bitters, put up in quart bottles, compounded of the cheapest whisky or common rum, costing from 20 to 40 cents per gallon, the taste disguised by Anise or Coriander Seed.

This class of Bitters has caused and will continue to cause, as long as they can be sold, hundreds to die the death of the drunkard. By their use the system is kept continually under the influence of Alcoholic stimulants of the worst kind, the desire for Liquor is created and kept up, and the result is all the horrors attendant upon a drunkard's life and death.

For those who desire and will have a Liquor Bitters, we publish the following receipt. Get One Bottle Hoofland's German Bitters and mix with Three Quarts of Good Brandy or Whiskey, and the result will be a preparation that will far excel in medicinal virtues and true excellence any of the numerous Liquor Bitters in the market, and will cost much less. You will have all the virtues of Hoofland's Bitters in connection with a good article of Liquor, at a much less price than these inferior preparations will cost you.

ATTENTION, SOLDIERS!

AND THE FRIENDS OF SOLDIERS.

We call the attention of all having relations or friends in the army to the fact that "HOOFLAND'S German Bitters" will cure nine-tenths of the diseases induced by exposures and privations incident to camp life. In the lists, published almost daily in the newspapers, on the arrival of the sick, it will be noticed that a very large proportion are suffering from debility. Every case of that kind can be readily cured by Hoofland's German Bitters. Diseases resulting from disorders of the digestive organs are speedily removed. We have no hesitation in stating that, if these Bitters were freely used among our soldiers, hundreds of lives might be saved that otherwise will be lost.

We call particular attention to the following remarkable and well authenticated cure of one of the nation's heroes, whose life, to use his own language, "has been saved by the Bitters":

PHILADELPHIA, August 23, 1862.

Messrs. Jones & Evans.—Well, gentlemen, your Hoofland's German Bitters has saved my life. There is no mistake in this. It is vouched for by numbers of my comrades, some of whose names are appended, and who were fully cognizant of all the circumstances of my case. I am, and have been for the last four years, a member of Sherman's celebrated battery, and under the immediate command of Captain R. B. Ayres. Through the exposure attendant upon my arduous duties, I was attacked in November last with inflammation of the lungs, and was for seventy-two days in the hospital. This was followed by great debility, heightened by an attack of dysentery. I was then removed from the White House, and sent to this city on board the steamer State of Maine, from which I landed on the 28th of June. Since that time I have been about as low as one could be and still retain a spark of vitality. For a week or more I was scarcely able to swallow anything, and if I did force a morsel down, it was immediately thrown up again.

I could not even keep a glass of water on my stomach. Life could not last under these circumstances; and accordingly, the physicians who had been working faithfully, though unsuccessfully, to rescue me from the grasp of the dread Archer, frankly told me they could do no more for me, and advised me to see a clergyman, and to make such disposition of my limited funds as best suited me. An acquaintance who visited me at the hospital, Mr. Frederick Steinbron, of Sixth below Arch Street, advised me, as a forlorn hope, to try your Bitters, and kindly procured a bottle. From the time I commenced taking them the gloomy shadow of death receded, and I am now, thank God for it, getting better. Though I have taken but two bottles, I have gained ten pounds, and I feel sanguine of being permitted to rejoin my wife and daughter, from whom I have heard nothing for eighteen months; for, gentlemen, I am a loyal Virginian, from the vicinity of Front Royal. To your invaluable Bitters I owe the certainty of life which has taken the place of vague fears—to your Bitters will I owe the glorious privilege of again clasping to my bosom those who are dearest to me in life.

Very truly yours, ISAAC MALONE.

We fully concur in the truth of the above statement, as we had despaired of seeing our comrade, Mr. Malone, restored to life.
